VSO Software Newsletter n°43
March 2015
In this issue:
- Latest News
- Did you know?

Latest News

- VSO Video Converter becomes ConvertXtoVideo
We realized that the name of our VSO Video Converter was confusing: in a bid to make our product range clearer, we have changed the name of our all-in-one, universal converter.
It is now called ConvertXtoVideo.
We have added some new features (see below) so install the new version and give it a try!
If you own a VSO Video Converter licence or a Goldmembership, nothing changes: your key is still valid for the new program.

- New feature: audio normalization
You've certainly come across videos that have a very low or very high volume. We're to the rescue with our new Audio normalization feature, a clever tool that analyzes the audio stream of the video and sets it at a normalized level to make sure the sound is perfectly audible throughout the video. Available for now in ConvertXtoVideo (f.k.a. VSO Video Converter), Blu-ray Converter and DVD Converter. See how it works in our section below.

- New trial mode
At VSO, we want to make sure you're 100% happy with our software before you decide to buy it. We have now changed the way our trial versions work: enjoy a 7 day full and free use of the program upon its first installation (valid for all our video converters).

- Windows 10 compatibility
The new Windows OS won't be officially released until the end of the year, but our video converters are already tested and compatible with Windows 10!

Did you know?

- How to set the right audio volume

To get impeccable audio volume throughout your videos, use our new automatic audio normalization feature: follow the guide!

If you want to contact us please use support form or our Facebook and Twitter accounts. Read our blog for great info, funny stuff and video news!

Bye for now!
The VSO Software Team